

BECOME AN EXPERIENCED ARCHAEOLOGIST

Work experience is a key component of professional archaeological training.

You simply can't get all the skills you need to be a practicing archaeologist at university.

Practical experience, in offices and laboratories and on field surveys and excavations, is essential to help develop your archaeological and cultural heritage skills.

The Register of Archaeology Work Experience Partners can help you gain this essential experience.

It lists leading companies in archaeological- and heritage-related work in Australia who are willing to consider placing people in their organisations to gain work experience.

So logon to www.australianarchaeologicalassociation.com.au/work_experience and become an experienced archaeologist!
